

Hello,

From time to time, the Office for Women's Faculty Development will be sending selected announcements to women faculty, fellows, and instructors in the UW-SMPH Department of Medicine. I hope you find these useful and interesting, and I welcome any suggestions you may have for content. Likewise, if you prefer not to receive this information, send me an email and I will remove your name from the address lists.

- The National Institutes of Health has launched a new website for Women in Biomedical Careers as a major part of the mandate of the Office of Research on Women's Health (ORWH). There are a number of interesting links for resources at the NIH and elsewhere.

- The 2007 Short Course in Clinical Research will be offered August 16-17 at the Health Sciences Learning Center by the UW-SMPH Clinical Investigator Preparatory Program (CIPP) and Howard University College of Medicine. This is an excellent local opportunity at very modest cost for participants.

- The AAMC Early Career Women Faculty Seminar is being held July 7-10, 2007 at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel in Washington, DC. Unfortunately the seminar is already fully subscribed, but next year will come sooner than you think, and this is a well-regarded training opportunity. Registration will open soon for the Mid Career Women Faculty Seminar planned for December 15-18, 2007.
